

Prof Harry Siristatidis

Harry is an Associate Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology / Assisted Reproduction in the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens, Greece. He completed his specialization in the 2nd Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology, Aretaieion Hospital, University of Athens, in 2003 and he was Clinical and Research Fellow in the Assisted Reproduction Unit in Aberdeen Maternity Hospital, Obstetrics and Gynecology Department, University of Aberdeen, Scotland from 2005 to 2007. He is currently the Director of the Assisted Reproduction and Minimally Invasive Surgery Units in 3rd Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology, Attikon Hospital, University of Athens, Greece. His special interests are focused on Assisted Reproduction Techniques and subfertility investigation and management, as well as on subfertility-related minimally invasive procedures. Further points of interests consist of residents training, bio-statistics and epidemiology. He has over 100 peer reviewed publications in the international literature and serves as a reviewer in more than 60 scientific journals.